Interesting Facts

- A. The Earl of Sandwich was the head of the English Navy in the American War of Independence. He loved playing cards and he didn't like stopping for lunch. So in 1762 he invented a snack made of two pieces of bread with something in the middle. What was it called? Of course, sandwich!
- B. 150 years ago in England, mothers and fathers in poor families had to go out to work in factories. There was no time to shop and cook. So they bought fast food in the street. The most popular was fried fish with a piece of bread. Then in the 1870s something new came from France — pommes de terre a la mode. The English called them “chips”. Soon there were fish n chip shops everywhere in working-class areas. They used to put your fish'n'chips in an old newspaper — with a lot of salt and vinegar on top. Today fish'n'chips are still very popular in Britain — but they come in clean white paper bags!
- C. The word hamburger comes from the German city Hamburg. In the Hamburg area the Tartars first made a sort of hamburger in the Middle Ages. They used to sit on pieces of meat when they rode horses; so the meat came out flat! But the Americans invented the modern hamburger about 100 years ago. Now they forget the origin of the word — and make cheeseburgers, fishburgers, beefburgers, eggburgers ... in fact anythingburgers!

D. Long thin sausages come from Frankfurt in Germany. They are called “frankfurters”. Put one in bread, and it becomes a “hot dog”. Why? Well, the sausage looks like a long thin German dog, a “dachshund”. Add chilli, and it tastes hot!

Task 10

You are going to read the text about some reasons for becoming a vegetarian. Answer the questions (1-9) in no more than four words. Write your answers on the lines. There is an example (0) at the beginning.

Why Do People Become Vegetarians?

Anyone who has visited a grocery store or restaurant has probably seen food items labeled "vegetarian. These foods do not contain meat, and people who choose this type of diet are called vegetarians. Many different people of all ages are vegetarians and everyone has his or her own reasons for refusing to eat meat. Some believe eating meat is not good for you, some believe it is wrong to kill animals and some believe meat is too expensive.

Some people do not eat meat because they believe it is unhealthy. Certain types of meat contain a high amount of fat. Too much fat in your diet can cause health problems like heart attacks and cancer. People can also get serious diseases or infections from eating meat that is not cooked long enough. Not everyone who eats meat will have these problems, but many people stop eating meat because they do not want to take the chance.

Some people do not eat meat because they believe it is cruel to kill animals. This may be because their religion forbids it or because they do not like to think that an animal had to suffer and die just so they could have a meal. Many people who are vegetarians for this reason also avoid wearing clothes and shoes that are made of animal fur and leather.

Some people do not eat meat because they believe it is too expensive. By not buying meat, these vegetarians have more money left over to buy other kinds of food. Meat is high in protein, which is an important element of food that people need to stay alive. Vegetarians make sure they get the protein their bodies need by eating other, less expensive types of food like nuts, cheese and milk.

When people decide to stop eating meat, they must find alternative sources for the nutrients they need to stay healthy. After a while, a vegetarian diet has become a regular part of daily life.
